

Points To Advantages Of New Water Route For The Canadian West

Toronto.—A vivid word picture of Canada's new northwest development and a vision of great lands in transportation by air land and sea that would centre about Churchill, the northern Manitoba, marked the address of John W. Daffo, managing editor and vice-president of the Manitoba Free Press, before the Empire Club here.

Speaking at the club luncheon at the Royal York Hotel, Mr. Daffo told of new developments in Canadian transportation through the utilization of the northwest passage.

With Churchill as the terminus of the new water route, a saving in freight rates and distance would be effected and the points of contact more closely drawn together.

With the growth of the great northern artery connecting westward to the Pacific as new discoveries in air transportation rapidly follow one another, he foresees a great work of air lines leading to Europe.

As Churchill as the great junction point for the North American continent. As direct results of the new water route, Mr. Daffo, visioned night shipments of grain moving through the northwest passage.

With old world and return cargoes of Welsh anthracite coal that would find ready markets 500 miles from Hudson Bay and would eliminate transportation of Pennsylvania anthracite.

Resumption of Canada's cattle trade, with Great Britain, he believed may be brought about by the new route, where there would be a saving of 1,200 miles as against the Montreal route. "We have not our direct trade with Great Britain," he said, "and we may be shut out of the United States."

All importations into western Canada, he pointed out, could come via the new route to the carrying capacity of that route during the season. Great developments would also be effected in the Peace River district, "which will be nearer Liverpool by the new route than via the Pacific."

Named For Cattle Judging

Three Farm Boys To Represent Canada In Great Britain

Toronto Summer.—Three young farm lads, holding high aggregate scores in the cattle club contests of the Canadian National Railway at the Royal Winter Fair, have been selected to represent Canada next summer in the international cattle judging contest to be held in Great Britain, where they will contest from teams all over Britain and from the United States.

The successful boys, Clifford Bewick, Barrie, Ont.; Gordon Campbell, Wrentham, N.B.; and Gordon Campbell, of Stewiack, N.S.

British Cadets Coming

Will Attend Annual Meet In 1930 Of Canada Rifle Association

Ottawa.—Cadet contingents from Great Britain will attend all the annual shoots in 1930 of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association and the Ontario Rifle Association. It was announced in a letter received by the Department of National Defence from Surgeon-General R. J. E. Hanson, honorary organizer of the Imperial Cadet Association.

The contingent of 19 cadets will be headed by Major J. M. West, Shrewsbury Officers' Training Corps as honorary commander.

Occupied British Barracks.—A battalion of French infantry has arrived here and taken over the barracks recently occupied by the British troops.

Despite statements to the contrary, some quarters believed that the French intend to send detachments of troops to various places in Britain's former areas of occupation.

Logging In B.C. Curtailed.—Victoria.—"Drastic" curtailment of logging operations is being effected at most Vancouver Island logging camps.

Loggers are being ordered to work with the reduced activity generally throughout Oregon, Washington, and Great Britain.

PLAN FOR LEAGUE CREATED BY MENNONITES

Ottawa, Ont.—Cable dispatch received from Geneva, Bern and Warsaw indicates clearly that the exodus of Mennonites from the Soviet Union will be a greater proportion than the Soviet Union has been led to expect.

There has been no suggestion that Canada should consider taking more than 5,000 of them, the number that will have to find new homes somewhere in the world may reach the staggering total of 100,000 persons.

The 5,000 Mennonites who gathered in the environs of Warsaw a few weeks ago and concerning whom the Canadian government was approached by the German foreign office, appear now to have been but the advance guard of a constantly swelling stream of refugees.

It is claimed that the entire Mennonite population of Russia, which has been increasing steadily for 150 years since the Queen Katherine offered the sect sanctuary from religious persecution, will have the right to return within five months upwards of 100,000 Mennonites.

The Canadian agricultural representative declared that statistics had been taken of the world's wheat supply throughout the world all pointed toward big purchases of Canadian wheat before the 1930 crop.

Heavy Air Mail

Thousands Of Letters Are Awaiting Opening Of Northern Service

Edmonton.—One hundred thousand letters are awaiting the opening of central post office in Edmonton for mail service to the north country, it was estimated by F. X. Leger, superintendent of the Edmonton post office, a few days ago. The peak has not been reached yet as more mail letters are being received here daily.

Three mail lines will in all likelihood be required for opening this service. Two of these will be the air mail service for handling the large volume of letters sent here by first flight cover collections.

Nothing definite has been settled as yet in regard to the date of opening the northern service, as this will start just as soon as there is sufficient ice on the rivers for the machines to land on an ice.

Winipeg.—The Dominion was requested in a resolution sent by Mayor Dan McLean, to take under consideration a plan to shorten the hours of working men in Canada. Details of the plan or to what extent the working day should be cut were not divulged. It is aimed to give employment to hundreds of men now out of work throughout the country, Mayor McLean said.

Appeals, British Samoa.—A petition requesting the King of England to take the control of Samoa from New Zealand, signed by 1,000 New Zealanders, was lodged with the Admiralty here for transmission.

The petition was signed by 25 chiefs in behalf of the "Kaua" organization of natives, which represents about 50 per cent of the Samoans.

FLASHES GLAD-TIDINGS

Makes Definite Charge Against Communists

Causes Of Unrest In Africa Says Minister Of Justice

Pretoria, South Africa.—The definite charge that the activities of Communist internationalists are behind the widespread unrest among natives in the Union of South Africa was made in the course of a long address by Hon. Oswald Pirow, Minister of Justice.

Numerous organizations, established with or at least in close touch with the Third International, are responsible, the minister stated, for fanning the unrest which came to a head at Durban recently, when the government was forced to raid the native compounds and arrest 600 out of 5,000 natives who had refused to pay the poll taxes.

The minister also declared that unless the danger was checked strongly by the police, rioting on a large scale would be suffered within 12 to 18 months time.

No payments have yet been made on account of the province of Ontario.

Alberta Election Rumor

Premier Brownlee Says Question Of Election Next Year Has Not Been Discussed

Edmonton.—Asked about the probability of the Alberta general election being held in June or next year, as rumored in Calgary, Premier Brownlee replied that "it is not the province of the government to have to deal with that at all."

The premier had no further comment to make, except to say that the question has not yet been discussed by the government in any way.

The premier also said that if it rides out its full term, need not go to the polls again until 1931, but Calgary rumor has it that it will do so next year.

Bob Quebec Bank

Montreal.—Three armed and masked men walked into the office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at St. Christopher's, Que., about 30 miles from Montreal, tied the manager and cashier to chairs and escaped with cash estimated at $500. The bandits, who had prepared their way by cutting telephone wires, drove off in an automobile.

Wants Official Delegates

London, England.—The British government despatched communications to Italy, France and Japan urging that these governments be represented at the five-power naval conference by civilian ministers rather than delegates chosen from the armed services.

To Aid in Industrial Development

His Excellency, Lord Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, has consented to act as chief patron.

Airplane Brings Word To Outside World Of Safety Of The MacApine Party

Winipeg.—A true case of northern flyers made a treacherous 200-mile flight to Fort Resolution, on Great Slave Lake, in the Northwest Territories, bringing the first word of the MacApine explorers to have been received in ten days.

Andy Cruckshank, pilot in the aerial relief expedition, under the command of Captain Guy S. Blanchet, arrived at Fort Resolution and reported Colonel C. D. H. MacAlpine and his party safe at Fort Reliance on McLeod Bay, where they have been land-based since Tuesday, November 12.

Without means of communication with the outside world, Cruckshank undertook the dangerous mission from Fort Reliance to ascertain landing conditions and to report the party's safe arrival at Fort Reliance.

Radio reports received by the relief plot were not assuring. To the north of the lake, along the 1,000-mile aerial trail to Fort Reliance, landing conditions are not favorable for the big air-rumored planes of the Blériot type.

Colonel MacAlpine and his seven men to civilization. Only a tiny strip of ice, the lakes water, landings are to be made and he is staying at Reliance, where the Dominion Explorers maintain a base.

Rescued From Cambridge Bay, where the party was stranded, and taken to Reliance, to where they had been taken by Eskimo hunters after long weeks of wandering on the barren lands, the MacAlpine men were returned to Bathurst Inlet, radio plot of the Dominion Explorers, by Captain Cruckshank.

Ten or more of the connections between the coast of Nova Scotia and the Gulf of St. Lawrence were severed by the upheaval among the hills and valleys of the ocean's floor.

The Development Of The Boy Jesus, verse 40. Every child who has ever lived, Jesus entered the world as a helpless infant, and he grew up as a normal child.

His parents were Joseph and Mary, who were married in Nazareth. As a child he grew up and became a carpenter, with wisdom, and the grace of God within him.

 A ship of horrors shipped by one of themselves was the unique feature of the sailing of the Unclon of York on a recent trip from Montreal. Six holders of the Victoria Cross, Britain's most coveted and most distinguished of war awards, were on the vessel, which was under the command of Captain Stuart, himself a V.C. They were on their way from Canada to London to take part in the dinner by the Prime of Wales. The Victoria Cross came from all parts of the Empire and to his mind November 1914. The V.C. travelled as Canada Pacific Hugs Minnesota and a copy of Scotland.

CALGARY COMES THROUGH
 We learn, after long long waiting, that the City of Calgary is now preparing to install sewage disposal works. This information is gratifying. It is the best news we have heard for a long time.
 Calgary disregarded the provincial health regulations for many years by dumping raw sewage into the Bow River and thus endangering the purity of Bassano's water supply. The practice was unlawful and most vulgar to Bassano. It was only after repeated demands by the people of Bassano that the provincial Department of Health finally took action to compel Calgary to observe the health laws of the province.

Now that the work of building the sewage disposal plant is actually under way it is to be hoped that construction will go forward without further delay so that the public utilities in the City of Calgary may be brought up to a standard demanded by the Department of Health.

BUYING ALBERTA MADE GOODS
 The following timely article is being circulated by the Alberta Development Board in an effort to stimulate Alberta's industries:

"At this season of the year, when thoughts are turning to Christmas and the exchanging of presents, it would be well for the citizens of Alberta to remember the efforts of the Alberta Development Board in its campaign urging the purchase of Alberta made goods."

"The merchants of the province cooperate in stocking and displaying Alberta made products. How can we expect the retailer to do his part if the consumers do not take the step in the right direction and make their purchases wherever possible of the products of Alberta's factories?"

"The manufacturers of the province are prepared to stand by the quality of their products and only ask for business on the merits of their goods. They make as good, if not better, products as are purchased elsewhere."

"The farmers of the district know that part of their revenue comes from the city, and it is only an act of co-operation for them to buy Alberta made goods in return. Money spent in our own province comes back to us again but money spent for goods produced outside of the province goes away and keeps on travelling."

"It is only by working in harmony that the greatest good can be accomplished. Ask your stockbroker to show you some of the products of Alberta's factories and compare the prices and values with other manufacturers. Let's all work together this Christmas and support Alberta made products."

ILLUSIONS
 (By H. Sackville-West)
 The greater cats with golden eyes stare out between the bars. Deserts are there, and different skies. And night with different stars. They prowl the aromatic hill. And mate as fiercely as they kill. And hold the freedom of their will. To roam, to live, to drink their fill. But this beyond their will they know: Man loves a little and for long shall die.

Their kind across the desert range where culps spring from stones. Not knowing they will suffer change Or vultures pick their bones. Their strength's eternal in their night. They rule the terror of the night. They overtake the deer in flight. And in their arrogance they smite. But I can see, if they are strong: Man's love is transient as his day is long.

Yet, oh, what powers to deceive; My wit is turned to faith. And at this moment I believe in love and recant at death. I came from nowhere, and shall be strong, steadfast, swift, eternally. I am a lion, a stone, a tree. And as the polar star in me. In dead my constant heart on thee. Ah, may I stay forever blind. With lions, tigers, leopards, and their kind.

Parental Touch
 He had gone into the library to put the thing up to her father and she was anxiously waiting on the front porch.
 "Well," said the sister when he returned, "he asked me how I was and I told him I had $2,000 in the bank."

 "He borrowed it."

Sporting Offer
 During a grouse hunt two sportsmen were potting the birds from butts situated very close together. Suddenly a red face showed over the top of one butt, and the occupant said, "Curses you, sir, you almost hit my wife just now."
 "Did I?" said the man, agast.
 "I'm terribly sorry—er—have a shot at mine over there."

 A—No. The mouth is generally used.
 Q—How do you tell which is your side dish of spinach?
 A—Don't be silly. Who wants to?
 Q—What would be the proper thing to say if, in carving the duck, it should skid off the platter into your neighbor's lap?
 A—Be very cautious. Say, "May I trouble you for that duck?"

History was made in Canada when Chief Dinsdale Wabashah (Husung, Deer), of the Ojibways, met and greeted in all friendly Chief Ocasooto-Kwasi of the Innuits, at Chishanaga, Tullin, Ontario, near Montreal, on Thursday, Nov. 21, 1929. There is no record of these tribes ever having met before in Canada. The Ojibways, who are better known as Paul Chishanaga, head Indian of the post thirty years at Nipigon Camp, north of Ontario. Neither could speak a word of the other's language and conversed through the medium of English.

What is regarded as a record movement was made recently at the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevator No. 7 at Port Arthur, when in 4½ hours, 50,000 bushels of wheat were transferred from the elevator to the hold of the steaming locomotive. There were twelve barges being loaded by the ship when the wheat was carried to a top-rental golden river from the elevator at the rate of 2,600 bushels per minute.

Fifty different samples now serve to carry Canadian products to every continent from the port of Vancouver, states a recent trade review issued by the Royal Bank of Canada. The review says that in a period when the other great ports have had difficulty in maintaining their previous volume of trade, traffic through the port of Vancouver has experienced steady growth. From 137 steamship ships in 1917, the number increased to 1,341 in 1928. During the past year total trade of the port was a value of $25,000,000.

Meaning Of Totem Poles

Used By Indians As Monument Of Important Events

Boy Scouts and Girl Guides who visit the totem poles without, perhaps, quite realizing its origin and meaning. Totem poles are used by many native tribes in various parts of the world as monuments of important events and tombs of the dead. To the Alaskan Indians, however, the totem poles stand for the kindred spirits from whom he believes his tribe is descended, and it is connected with all his religious and social beliefs.

That Was Different

Sir Reginald Bacon tells a good story about a small boy who was being questioned by the committee charged with selecting pupils for the chairman said, "Well, my boy, you can give us any example of the sagacity of animals that you liked." The boy looked uncomfortable and blushed. Whereupon the chairman said, "Horses, dogs and cats—have you ever known them to do clever things?" "Oh, animals, sir," said the boy. "I thought you said 'Animals'!"

Cheer Submarine Commander

Unusual Scene Witnessed As Gathering In England

Four thousand persons cheered themselves hoarse when Commander Norman Lewis, commander of the British "G" boat sunk by a German submarine in 1917, and Captain Hasbagen, the German commander of the submarine which sank Lewis' mystery ship, appeared together at the meeting of the League of Nations Union at Reading, England. Captain Hasbagen had picked up Lewis and his crew and taken them aboard his submarine.

The audience first sang the English national anthem and the German anthem.

Contrasted with this is an anonymous letter in the Daily Express from a mother whose two younger sons were on merchant vessels sunk with or without a chance. He reflects: "It was some effort like Hasbagen who watched boys ships go down and never tried to save them."

Commenting editorially on the welcome extended to Captain Hasbagen, the Express remarks: "Captain Hasbagen did his duty as a faithful servant. As a civilian and a brave man, he is welcome. But both he and his friends must understand the title of 'boat commander' carries a bitter and ineffaceable association."

New Radio Experiment

Milking Test Tried With Gurney Cows Was Successful

There seems to be no end to the remarkable stunts being tried with cows. It wasn't more than two months ago that we heard of the 1,800-mile hike to the National Dairy Exposition which two Ayrshire cows were taking. Now the Gurney breed breaks into the headlines with an experiment whereby three Gurney cows were milked by radio.

"Only cows with sense enough to operate a radio set will be in demand by future dairymen," the news announcement says. "If a cow hasn't education enough to tune in to its owner's little broadcasting station when it comes milking time, it might as well pack up its lunch and start for the nearest butcher shop."

Three Gurney cows were led into a hotel in Racine, Wisconsin, connected to a milking machine, and the machine started by an electrical impulse sent from a broadcasting station some distance away. One cow donated 7 pounds of milk by way of radio.

When such a system is perfected could load his portable broadcasting set into a car and go fishing for a week, his only care being to remember to press the milking machine button night and morning. Another button might call the chickens, and crow like a rooster if necessary. Another button could be added to feed the pigs, throw down hay, and water the sheep. It is another button might be attached for winding the clock and putting the cat out at the proper time.

"If science continues to advance, by 1950 a farmer can quit agriculture and go into the electrical light business on a large scale. In all seriousness, the above incident opens our minds to wonder at the great developments in science as applied to farm practices which may take place in the next few decades. We have only to consider the advancement in electrical usage, in air transportation, the radio and various other fields, to realize that we may live to see in actual farm practice what may seem impractical and even almost impossible now."

Wheat Pool's Operations

Now Controls 55 Per Cent. Of The Grain In Western Canada

Although in operation for a period of only five years, the Canadian Wheat Pool controls 55 per cent of the crop grown in the prairie provinces of Canada—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

It owns and operates 1,435 country elevators out of a total of 5,042 in the prairie provinces and, in addition, owns a large percentage of the terminal elevators at Fort William, Port Arthur, Vancouver, Prince Rupert and other points. The Pool has taken a leading part in helping to open up markets for Canadian grain in China and Japan and other countries, and has placed its headquarters in 40 different cities in Europe.

Big Mineral Discovery

Deposit Of Copper And Nickel Ore Attracting Attention To Saskatchewan

The whisper of a great discovery has gone out from the heart of the west, and the representatives of mining organizations large and small are endeavoring to ascertain the spot in northern Saskatchewan where the Dominion Explorers Ltd., are reported to have made what appears to be the mineral discovery of the current year.

Members of the Dominion Explorers Organization have been brought in from different countries and have been flying away in one fixed direction, and the indications are the discoverers will have themselves all fortified in regard to holding in the new district before rival claim-stakers may appear.

Dominion Explorers have a Lindsey organization, has had the experience of dealing with big mineral deposits. Sherritt-Gordon has been a case in point where the mineral bearing fractures extend possibly two to three miles in length. In regard to the new discovery in northern Saskatchewan, while officials have remained reticent, yet the size of the organization has rendered it difficult to prevent a certain amount of detail filtering out. Outstanding features now definitely known are the big width of the deposit and the particularly great length—the surface being a close duplicate of Sherritt-Gordon—with the exception that whereas Sherritt-Gordon is a cracked and dried deposit, the one located by Dominion Explorers is a copper and nickel.

Samples of the ore from the new discovery have been examined. These samples having been taken from surface where gosses lie heavy and the ore is not yet reached entirely below the levelled zone are extremely impressive and something which would justify the discoverers in rounding out the deposit as a holding of at least 15 to 20 square miles.

Alberta Turkeys

"High standards for turkeys are being maintained by the Alberta Turkey Association, it was reported at a meeting of the Association in Calgary the other day. The average weight of turkeys before the advent of the Association was 10 pounds. Now it is 12 pounds.

Memories Of James Watt

Contents Of Garret Workshop Are In Reminiscence Of James Watt

James Watt, the famous mechanical inventor and civil engineer, who died in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1784, and died in Birmingham, England, in 1819. It is not generally known that the contents of his garret workshop are in the Science Museum at South Kensington, London, England. The garret was used by Watt in his house in Birmingham, and was shut up for thirty years after his death. Various descriptions of the opening of the garret, in 1853, are given in a pamphlet issued by the Museum, Glasgow, which was one of the party, recorded that "The ashes of the last fire were in the grate, the last bit of coal was in the scuttle. Many objects lay about or in the drawers, indicating the pursuits which had been interrupted by death. On the shelves are minerals and chemicals in pots, and jars, on which the dust of nearly half a century has settled. The most remarkable have long since dried up, the putty has been turned to stone and the paste to dust. On the shelf are three glass dishes in which there is a bunch of withered grapes."

May Export Gas To United States

Alternative Proposition Is To Convert Surplus Gas From Alberta To Saskatchewan

While the special federal commission investigating the problem of disposing of the enormous surplus of Turner Valley natural gas has not yet reported, intimations are being broadcast that the report will favor export of the surplus to United States points south of the international border in Montana.

If the commission reports to that effect, there is sure to be an outcry from the Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces which are looking anxiously for a supply of natural gas from over the border.

The nearest market on the American side of the line is Great Falls, Montana, some 100 miles south of the end of the natural gas line from Calgary to Bow River. The oil companies and gas companies producing natural gas who wish to market it are looking for a market.

On the other hand, it is known that the Roth interests are drilling for gas in the Cypress Hills oil fields. It is the intention of Roth and his associates to construct a 300-mile pipeline to Swift Current, Moose Jaw and Regina. This is an immense undertaking as the total mileage of the Calgary-Turner Valley-Island system is already more than 200 miles.

Another factor that is being considered is the fact that the line was constructed from Cypress Hills to Moose Jaw and Regina, the Turner Valley surplus could then be used as another link of oil to about 40 miles between Cypress Hills and Foremost would tie in the proposed Saskatchewan gas distribution system with the existing Alberta system.

Even though the cost might be somewhat more than the cost of exporting gas to Montana, it would mean that the immense Canadian natural resource of natural gas would be enjoyed by Canadians.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup steamed strained pumpkin.

1/2 teaspoon salt.

1/2 teaspoon ginger.

1/2 teaspoon cloves.

2 eggs.

2 teaspoons cinnamon.

1 cup canned sweetened condensed milk.

1 cup water.

Mix ingredients in the order given; pour into pan lined with unbleached pie crust. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes. Then reduce the temperature to moderate (350 degrees Fahrenheit), and bake for about thirty-five additional minutes, or until the filling has set.

STEWED CELERY

Scrape some celery, delicate, white stalks of celery, wash repeatedly so that no sand adheres, and after cutting them into even three-inch pieces, pour over several minutes of boiling water and pour into a strainer. Then stew the pieces of celery for 20 minutes with half teaspoon butter or chicken fat, half teaspoon sugar, some pepper and beef broth. Dust some flour over, and cook until done with half cupful of cream.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective means of sunbathing rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Balance has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are actually excluding these vital sunbathing rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-cherished desire of health experts to have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and animals, and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their stables.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has done much to advance the cause of health and vitality, giving a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of flocks, and has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

Friends Of Famous Jewish Will Change Clothing On Embellished

His public will be an immaculate Caruso even in death.

The famous singer's friends have decided to wear his tuxedo every three years and change the clothing, keeping his remains constantly dressed in the latest fashion, as long as the embalming maintains the perfect state of the body.

The plan was revealed in Paris by Tito Chila, noted tenor.

Ever since his death, in 1921, the body of Caruso has rested in a crypt in Canosa tomb so that visitors may view it through the cover of the casket.

SYNOPSIS
Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, is loved by Grace Parrell, the cigarette girl, but he doesn't know it. He marries Molly Winston, a ballad singer, and wins fame as a composer of popular songs. When their baby, Jackie, is about two years old, Molly drops with John Perry, Al's best friend, the and Jerry take the child Al adores and sail for France. Al, completely broken by the loss, disappears from Broadway and becomes a derelict. One day Grace Parrell sees him on the street, but he runs away. Grace starts a search for him, which ends in the ruins of the image of Grace remains visible in Al's mind.

CHAPTER XXIII
Something of Al's old generous heart toward Grace returned as he thought of her. How concerned he had been yesterday as she stared at him from across the street. Yet his feeling toward her was not strong enough to overcome the resistance of a desire to separate himself from the old life.

In spite of all that, however, the memory of her face remained in his mind. Perhaps it was this memory that brought him up sharply about three o'clock one morning before a house that seemed strangely familiar. Surely he knew these outside steps and that entrance. It was Blackie Joe's place.

Slowly, scarcely knowing what he was doing, Al mounted the shabby stairs toward the little gleam of light he saw at the top. Yet he was sure of the place now; an intense longing possessed him to see the inside of the old familiar place where he had won his earliest triumphs. Only a few years had passed since those happy-go-lucky nights, but the time seemed like a century.

He stopped before the heavy, bolted door. It was a very door, much stronger than the one Al had known. The many raids of the prohibition agents had forced Blackie to take additional precautions; his place was better guarded now.

Al knocked against the panel set high in the door and the door opened. A strange face gazed at him, and the eyes became more suspicious every moment, as their owner looked him up and down, noting his disheveled clothes.

"Is Blackie Joe here?"
"Who wants to know?" asked the guard curiously.
"I do. I know him."
There was a pause, then: "Gwan bet it. It's got no time for the likes of you!"

The panel closed with a slam. Al, nodding listlessly, began to descend the stairs. He struggled his shoulders—it didn't matter.

Inside, Blackie had been standing fairly near the door. "Who wants to be called, after the apartment was closed."
"Oh, just some bum," said the door-keeper scornfully.

Blackie nodded and turned to look over his dance floor. But as he did so there was a faint stir of curiosity in his mind. A bum—well, what did the bum want?

He walked over to the door and saw across the panel. At the foot of the stairs, clearly illuminated against the light, he saw a familiar face.

At first Blackie did not recognize the figure at the foot of the night club stairs as Al Stone, the old singing waiter. But the familiarity of the profile was striking enough to make Blackie throw open the door and call "Hey—yo!"

At that, Al turned, so that his face was illuminated by the light at the head of the stairs. Now Blackie was sure it was Al Stone, the old singing waiter, the man to whom he had to write Al's name.

"Hello there, kid!" Blackie almost shouted in his delight. "We've been wondering where you were. And I think—I almost let you go away!"

Al stared into the face of his former boss, smiling faintly. It seemed as if Blackie would never relinquish that vigorous grip on his hand. A thrill of pleasure shot through Al's arm as he felt the old hand on his. Yet he was really glad to see him, who he had known in the most friendly way imaginable. That hadn't happened to Al for months. He glanced away to hide his embarrassment at his shabby appearance.

Then Blackie linked his strong arm about Al's and led the young song-writer up the stairs, talking as he went.

"You know, Al, this is a big moment for us all. I want you to come in and meet the performers—some of them you know, and Grace, is still with us—you remember her?"

Al nodded, but said nothing. Blackie saw he was dealing with a man who was not to be bothered, but had definitely lost his gift for carrying on in the battle of life. The arm inside Al's coat sleeve was strong.

"As they stepped into the door-keeper stared in amazement to see his well-dressed employer walking arm-in-arm with this bum. What on earth did it mean?"

It was well on toward daylight and one of a few customers remained in the main dining-and-dancing room.

"Come back to my office," suggested Blackie. "We'll have a good talk." But Al stopped, scanning the familiar room as if he expected to find the ghosts of his former triumphs there. His eyes took on the look of concentration that is habitual with men who try to escape the world and commune only with themselves. He forgot that he was standing beside a bum, looking solicitously into his face. . . . Yes, there was the table where Molly and Marcus and the others sat on the night he sang "Always to Molly. There was the old door leading to the bar. The floor show had ended, but the orchestra was playing and a few couples were dancing.

"Come," repeated Blackie, and Al followed him toward the private office. They sat down, facing each other. "Have a cigar, have a drink?" suggested the night club owner, but Al shook his head.

shook his head. Then Blackie began again. "Now, boy, I wish you'd tell me all about it. What happened to you—where have you been hiding out all these months?"

"You, here and there—just wandering about. Al replied noncommittally. "You know that. But do you know that Marcus, he's been after you? And a couple of song publishers have been paying you all over town?"

"You know it, cause the change is passive answer. 'I'm not interested in all that. I told Marcus I was through and I meant it. I really don't know why I came here tonight—just happened to look up and saw your entrance. Couldn't stay away from the old place forever, I guess.'"

A hapless feeling stole over Blackie. This was just the shill of the old Al; Blackie felt how strong that apparently limitless resistance of his would be to any comeback. Nevertheless, he leaned forward and said earnestly:

"Al, you don't have to tell me how you feel—I know. It may seem strange to you, but I was knocked out once pretty hard the same way, by a woman. For a while I thought there was no use living; but I got my feet under me again, and I did. I decided I wouldn't let one blow put me down for the count."

"Blackie, the reformer," murmured Al. An expression somewhere between a smile and a sneer curved the corners of his eyes.

Blackie leaned back in his chair, but determined not to show it. In the old days Al could never get a word in edgewise, but now he was a hard and a harder and a harder to show it.

"Do you still love Molly?" Blackie asked impulsively.

"No!" The sharp denial was the first show of life Al had shown. Blackie nodded in approval. Then he asked him to wait a moment for further explanation was needed. "She did for me and first I had to clear her out of my mind. I did that—then I tried to write. But I found I couldn't get interested. It was no use."

Just then a waiter struck his head on the door and told Blackie a customer wanted to speak to him. Blackie rose.

Take Every Good For Granted

People No Longer Marvel Over Wonders Of Science
New York has a movie theatre in which nothing is shown except newsreels taken from news reels at the time.

People drop in to see and hear things exactly as they happened at the time. At present, for the color, and that may come in the near future.

For instance, moving pictures were shown of the Crown Prince of Italy dancing at his own wedding in Belgium. While the camera man was turning the crank, a fanatic fired a revolver shot at the Prince and almost assassinated him. The noise of that shot was recorded on the film.

And so an audience in a New York theatre hears the actual crack of a pistol fired in an attempted murder three thousand miles away. But very long ago, nightingales were singing in an English garden in Surrey. There were microphones hidden in the bushes, and the wonderful song of these birds, which sang only after dark, was heard in Italy. Today we can sit in our homes and hear something in New York or London, and a singer is heard in Los Angeles; another throw of the switch, and we hear the music of the switch is thrown again, and we hear a play in New Orleans. Who could have even dreamed ten years ago that any of these things were possible within a hundred years?

Empire Industries Fails

Would Charter Ship To Carry British Goods To War Parts Of Oceanography Association has gone on record as being favorable to the establishment of a system of carrying industries from throughout the British Empire as a means of eliminating unemployment not only in Great Britain but throughout the British Empire.

The decision was the result of several reports submitted by General Manager J. K. Macdonald, who recently returned from Great Britain.

Mr. Lee, president, endorsing the proposal, declared that the holding of ships in Britain was rather the "gamy" goal to Newmarket.

"What then is the use of holding Empire industries in London, when the people to whom the goods should be sold, live in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, West Indies and so on," said Mr. Lee. "We are advocating an Empire building for Vancouver because we believe the mass of the people, while shipping, properly displayed, would buy them."

Then there is the question of shipping machinery, steel and the bigger products. Why could it be shown in different parts for varying periods.

The exhibition association will pursue its objective in addressing the foreign offices of all other Dominions through the medium of Victoria and Ottawa, and it is hoped to present a united front to Downing Street within a year.

Workers Help By Science

Ore Detector Located New Body and Furnished Work For Discharge Miners
The practical ways in which scientific thinking may be used to help the miner are being demonstrated in Derbyshire had "petered out."

Two young schoolmasters invented an ore detector, which about the same time as the detector they had been charged with the detector they located a new body of ore, 2,000 feet below the surface. They figured it was worth about $200,000. The mine owners, having faith in science, put the miners back to work again, located the ore body through a tunnel and now the mine is working full blast. Politicians constantly promise miracles to help working folk. Science performs the miracles.—Vancouver Sun.

More than 25,000,000 girls in India are of the age of sixteen or married in India. Of this number nearly 218,000 are under the age of five years and 2,000,000 under ten years of age. India also has 15,139 widows under the age of fifteen.

Long Lived War Leaders

Four Who Were Heavy Burdened
For months before his death Streamman was a man broken in health, anxiously watched by relatives, friends and physicians, kept as a rigid diet, sent to bed early—he was an invalid, indeed, he had reached his fiftieth birthday. It happened, on the other hand, celebrated his eighty-second birthday, which fell on the day before Streamman's death, by going on a hunting trip, which was cut short by the Minister's death.

Ten years of peace killed Gustav Streamman; three wars—one on the other two were military men. Joffre was the supreme leader on one side—have proved insufficient to lay Paul von Hindenburg low. Can it be that we have heard far too much about the terrors of war, far too little about those of peace? It would seem so—at least in so far as the longevity of war leaders is concerned.

Today, fifteen years after the outbreak of the World War, and eleven years since its close, there are four men who can proudly boast that, despite having borne heavy burdens of leadership throughout the war, they have nevertheless become octogenarians. Hindenburg is one of the others; two are military men, Joffre and Mackensen; and one, a civilian who was at the head of his country's war-time government at a time of acute crisis—Georges Clemenceau.

Certain unusual conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as these morbid conditions permit them to. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities, destroy the worms, and create conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

Using Steam From Volcano
Steam issuing from fissures in the earth near the main crater of Mount Etna will be used this winter to supply the central heating plant of the geobiological observatory on the higher slopes of the mountain. Professor Gaetano Ponte, director of the Etna Observatory, said.

The Lethbridge Herald asks: "How shall we deliver our senators?" Will it be the Hon. Senator Smith or Mrs. Smith, or just plain Senator Smith?"

Some Human Outrages
People Have Earned Living By Swallowing All Kinds Of Articles
There are on record ancient feats of people who can swallow almost anything without inconvenience, who glory in it, make a mania of it, and who some even earn a livelihood by it.

A Stratford, England, telegraph operator does some years ago in the Essex County Lunatic Asylum from asphyxia. He had swallowed stones, grass, leaves, wood and scrap-iron.

Even more voracious was the individual who died at the London Hospital at a later date, and who was known in the title of "The Champion Asphyx."

He had in him forty pieces of cork, thirty pieces of tin, nine pieces of iron ring, three pieces of leather, a leather strap, 8 inches long, 12 inches of string, with bits of cork attached, and an immense quantity of lengths of string, cotton, and paper.

Another human outrick made his stomach a veritable dust-bowl by consuming over two pounds of broken lamp chimney, nails, tacks, screws, and tumblers.

Could Well Believe It
An old lady, up from the country, stood in a busy thoroughfare, looking at the omnibus stream of traffic, then at the bottle, "Pedestrians cross here."

"Humph!" she was heard to mutter; "may I should, may I am if they were downright angry."

She: "What would you do if I should say?"
He: "Hang out a sign, 'Well Paint.'"
